Starting this month, look for this column in every issue. We are proud of our contributors and would like you to know a little bit more about them and what they're doing.

WALT STEARNS is one of our most peripatetic authors. He spent a week on

Peter Hughes' Sea Dancer, diving the Turks & Caicos; traveled to the Dominican Republic for the story on Club Dominicus; and spent several days on Bonaire for the article on Sand Dollar Condominium Resort.

Born in Honolulu, Walt holds a degree in fine arts from Miami Dade College and has been diving since 1976. He once worked for the Miami Seaquarium, participating in numerous research and film projects involving dolphins, sharks and manatees.

Besides diving in general, Walt is well versed in photography (above and below the sea), U/W filmmaking, sharks, boating, fishing and marine natural history. He lives in South Florida.

This month marks the beginning of a four part series on underwater photography using Sea & Sea cameras. The authors of this piece are JACK AND SUE DRAFAHL. They are eminently qualified to write about this subject. A husband and wife team of professional photojournalists, they attended Brooks Institute of Pho-

They also enjoy travel and have written numerous articles for us on Fiji. 🐠

Unforgettable.

Imagine waking each morning knowing you will be diving what most call the finest diving on the planet. All the while, staying at a small intimate resort with the world's top-rated dive operation. And when the day is done relax around the pool or tiki bar before reliving the day's experience over a sumptuous dinner.
